KELLEY GIVES HINT OF G.O.P. POST-WAR PLAN

Non-Isolationist Policy Is Predicted By Michigan Governor

GOVERNORS ATTEND COLUMBUS CONCLAVE

Dewey Also Forecasts Republican Will Draft Constructive Policy

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 21.—Michigan's Republican governor, Harry F. Kelley, joined New York's Thomas E. Dewey today in forecasting a non-isolationist post-war policy would be framed by the Republican party for the 1944 presidential campaign.

Here for the annual governors' conference, Kelley told reporters "more facts" would have to be available before he and the people of Michigan and the midwest could make up their minds on detailed collaboration plans. Also, he cautioned, American sovereignty should be safeguarded in any peace-making schemes.

In an earlier interview, Gov. Dewey was outspoken in predicting the Republicans would frame a "constructive" post-war cooperation policy—"specific" and free of "isolationism."

Politics has no place on the agenda of the governors' meeting starting here today, but many in attendance are freely discussing the next presidential campaign in lobby conversations and newspaper interviews.

Several In Picture

Half a dozen of the Republican governors, including Dewey and the conference host, Gov. John W. Bricker, are being mentioned for the presidential nomination, along with the 1940 standard bearer, Wendell L. Willkie, who is not here.

Kelley was asked about reports that he favored Bricker for the nomination.

"I am friendly with Gov. Bricker, and he is with me, but he has never discussed the presidential question with me and there has been no commitment," the Michigander replied.

He added, however, that Michigan will be "an important state to consider in the next national convention."

He said the people in his section had not made up their minds on how far to go on post-war peace plans because there had been too many "curbstone opinions and not enough facts" on which to base definite conclusions.

"Michigan is not isolationist," he added, "while I think the people will want to play their part in healing a sickened world, they will want to protect our sovereignty. They will want to know how much the other nations are going to give up."

Dewey told reporters once more that he did not want to be considered for the presidential nomination.

Names Widow to Complete Term As City Treasurer

EAST LIVERPOOL, June 21.—Mayor Earl O. Greenwalt tomorrow will appoint Mrs. Hilda A. Hall, widow of the Clyde V. Hall, to serve the remaining six months of her husband's term as treasurer.

Hall, who never lost a political race, served four years as city councilman before election, six years ago, as city treasurer.

State Police, Troops Called Out After Detroit Race Riots In Which Six Die

Six Negroes Slain, Two Policemen Wounded; 150 Other Persons Hurt

BULLETIN

DETROIT, June 21.—Michigan state police and state troops were ordered to Detroit today to restore order after six persons were killed and some 200 injured in widespread race riots.

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT, June 21.—Six Negroes were shot and killed, two policemen were wounded and more than 150 other persons injured this morning in race rioting which broke out on the Belle Isle bridge and spread into Detroit's extensive downtown Negro district.

A survey of five police precinct stations at 8 a. m. showed at least 238 persons held for assault and disturbing the peace.

One of those slain bore a draft card issued to Carl Lincoln, 19. Patrolmen Harold Bole and Vernon Hayden said they fired after he threw a brick at Bo's. The officers said they were called to Hancock and Beaubien sts. by two Negro patrolmen who reported Lincoln was molesting women and throwing bricks into the street. One of the police bullets struck him in the chest.

Two others killed were identified through cards on their persons as William Hargesen, 27, and Robert Davis, 28.

Police reports said Sgt. Floyd C. Noot and Patrolman Ernest J. Hartwick, Jr., were wounded in a gun battle with Negroes at Division and Hastings sts.

Most of the widespread rioting which had continued through the early morning hours was reported under control at 7 a. m.

Saloons Ordered Closed

After a conference of high law enforcement officials, Capt. Donald S. Leonard of the Michigan state police said he believed Detroit police were getting the situation in hand and that he would advise Gov. Harry F. Kelly "there was no immediate need for martial law."

Windows of stores in the Negro district were smashed, there was considerable looting, and at least 20 taxicabs were stoned and damaged, police reported.

A conference of officials began at 4 a. m. and continued in session for several hours.

One of its actions was to close all saloons in the Negro district.

Senior Inspector Jesse Head of the police department, in estimating 200 persons injured, said seven were police officers.

Inspector Robert Turner, harbor master at Belle Isle, said the rioting started at about 10:30 Sunday night on the bridge that leads from Jefferson ave. to Belle Isle, popular recreation park in the Detroit river.

Turner said the hot Sunday brought about 50,000 persons to the island.

Atlantic Convoys Win 5-Day Battle With U-boat Packs

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 21.—German U-boat packs, attacking Atlantic convoys in "one of the fiercest and most sustained offensives ever mounted," were beaten off in a five-day running battle last month at a cost of three per cent of the Allied vessels, it was announced officially last night.

"Two U-boats were destroyed, three probably were destroyed and others may have been damaged," said a communique issued jointly by the admiralty and air ministry.

Accounts of the battle were the first to describe results of the new Allied technique of teaming escort carrier planes and land-based flying fortresses and Liberators with warships in the drive to clear the Atlantic of the undersea marauders.

31 Leave For Camp Tuesday Afternoon

The 31 district men who were inducted into the Army at Akron two weeks ago will entrain here Tuesday for Fort Hayes, Columbus.

The group, of which Clayton Leyda of Damascus is acting corporal, will board a train at the Pennsylvania depot at 1:54 p. m. Navy men accepted at Akron two weeks ago already are in training at Great Lakes, Ill., having left after a week's furlough.

HILLSDALE HOME LEVELED BY FIRE

Henry McClish Family Is Forced To Flee House Through Windows

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the five-room home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McClish in Hillsdale Sunday afternoon.

Answering an alarm at 3:38 p. m. firemen arrived to find the house completely ablaze. Members of the family, awakened by the fire, were forced to leave the building by the windows.

The fire spread so rapidly that the family was unable to save any articles or personal belongings. The heat of the blaze set fire to a telephone pole across the road.

While at the scene of the Hillsdale blaze, from which they returned at 6:07 p. m., firemen answered a call at 4:45 p. m. at the home of Dr. R. T. Holzbach, 1089 Jennings ave., where a short circuit in a basement radio caused a small fire.

The department was summoned to the National Sanitary Co. plant, at 3:52 p. m. Saturday by a false alarm.

MEAT PRICE CUTS EFFECTIVE TODAY

An average, 3-cent-a-pound reduction in the retail price of most meats went into effect today—the second of three price rollbacks undertaken by the Office of Price Administration through payments of subsidies.

The cutbacks affects all meat except cured and processed pork, but those cuts will come under the subsidy plan July 5.

The new meat prices followed a 10 per cent reduction in butter prices earlier this month. A similar reduction is scheduled for coffee prices, but an effective date has not yet been set.

Die In Camp Mishap

CAMP HOOD, Tex., June 21.—Its driver blinded by dust, a truck plowed into a group of soldiers, killing seven and injuring 15, the camp public relations office reported. The dead included five Ohioans. They were: Frederick J. Ubie, T. D. Anderzejewski and Arthur J. Schmeidler, all of Cleveland; Donald H. Voorhis of Middletown and Harold R. Aldinger of Vermilion.

'QUAKE ROCKS TURKEY AREA

Berlin Radio Says 15,000 Killed In Province of Anatolia

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 21.—The Berlin radio said today a violent earthquake had rocked the northwest part of Anatolia province of Turkey and that unconfirmed reports placed the dead in the city of Adazapur alone at 15,000, half its population.

The account, from the none-too-reliable Transoceanic news agency, said the quake occurred Sunday night during a heavy thunderstorm, and that a muffled subterranean rumbling from below the earth's surface added to the terror.

The quake's epicenter was placed at Adazapur and the unconfirmed reports, Transoceanic said, were that 40 per cent of the houses were destroyed and another 30 per cent were damaged severely.

Anatolia is the great western peninsula of Turkey between the Black and Mediterranean seas, leading to the Dardanelles.

Earth tremors also were reported elsewhere in the area, even in the east. Sparse and disrupted communications delayed accurate accounts of damage and suffering.

The earthquake shocks were felt at Istanbul and the principal city of Turkey, and the German agency said the people there were "seized with panic," rushing from their homes and restaurants. It required more than an hour to restore calm, the report added.

The broadcast, recorded by The Associated Press, said that all telephone and telegraph communications were disrupted and that railway traffic between Istanbul and the capital, Ankara, was interrupted.

Physicians, nurses and medical supplies were dispatched to Adazapur, it was said. The city of 30,000 lies 75 miles east of Istanbul.

WLB PROPOSAL REJECTED BY IDLE MINERS

Willing to Work Mines for Government: Await Next Move

MEN LEAVE WORK FOR THIRD TIME

"No Contract, No Work" Is Basis of Complaint: Ickes Confers

(By Associated Press)

BELLAIRE, June 21.—Ohio's bituminous coal mines shut down completely today in another work stoppage stemming from disputes over a new operator-union contract. Approximately 21,000 miners were away from their pits.

Spokesmen for United Mine Workers of America said none of its members went to work on the midnight or 8 a. m. shifts in this eastern district or the Hocking valley.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The big coal mining cog of the nation's war machine stalled again today and the 500,000 miners who run it looked to the government for their cue.

Rejecting what they termed an "infamous yellow dog contract" proposed by the War Labor board, John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers invoked their "no contract, no work" policy for the third time two months after negotiations with the operators collapsed.

The door was held open for a speedy resumption of operations under the direct sponsorship of the government, however, and the next move appeared to be up to Interior Secretary Ickes, who was placed in charge of the mines on May 1 as Federal Fuel administrator.

Ickes, represented by his aides as feeling that no precipitate action last night could have fended off the expiration of the latest work truce at midnight, made no immediate comment. He cancelled a projected trip to Columbus, O., where he was to have attended the governors' conference and stood by to receive union representatives.

Originally Demanded $2

The operators declared with the breaking off of negotiations yesterday "no possibility of agreement" as long as the miners continue their insistence on $1.30 a day extra pay for underground travel time. This figure had been whittled down from an original demand of $2.

The mine workers' policy committee, in a 750-word statement assailing the War Labor board,

SALEM AIR FORCE MEMBER HONORED

Pvt. George Sulea Awarded Blue Citation For Outstanding Action

Pvt. George Sulea of 391 Sharp ave. is one of three Ohioans among Army Air Force personnel, formerly attached to the 19th bombardment group, to receive a citation for distinguished action and service.

The Salem man, employed in Los Angeles at the time of his enlistment, entered the air corps Jan. 24, 1942.

The other two Ohio men authorized to wear the blue citation device framed in gold laurel leaves, the War department announced, are Pvt. Robert I. Connery of Steubenville and Pvt. Glenn E. Hartshorn of Newport.

Members of the 19th bomb group already have been cited four times for outstanding service achievement.

BARN FIRE NEAR ELKTON IS PROBED

LISBON, June 21.—Russell Smith, deputy state fire marshal, said he would investigate the cause of the fire Saturday night which destroyed a barn on the Curtis Warrick farm, one mile east of Elkton, at 10 p. m.

The property was recently sold by Mrs. Mabel Warrick to Frank Trotter of Calcutta.

A threshing outfit, 450 bushels of wheat and 500 apple crates owned by Perry Halverstad and stored in the barn were destroyed. Some machinery owned by Mr. Trotter and 500 feet of walnut lumber belonging to Mrs. Warrick were also destroyed. No livestock was lost.

Sicilian Targets Hit Again By Air Forces

WHERE PACIFIC AIR WAR GROWS

FURIOUS AIR BATTLES, raging over the U. S. base at Guadalcanal, may portend important moves in the South Pacific. The large number of planes sent against the island by the enemy is significant. It is believed that the Japs are trying to cripple the base to prevent its use as a springboard for new American thrusts in that area, or it may mean that they intend to make another attempt to cut the U. S. supply line to Australia. In three recent heavy forays, the Japs lost 141 planes while U. S. losses totaled nineteen planes. (International)

PEACE SOUGHT BY ITALIANS

Morale of Italians Ebbing Under Allied Aerial Blows, Report

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, June 21.—The Italian people want to get out of the war and gain relief from Allied bombings that have hammered pre-invasion warnings home to Italy's industrial centers, informants recently returned from that country said today.

Short of food except in high priced black market trading, short of sleep because of Allied air raids, and short of hope because they have lost faith in Mussolini's Fascist regime, the Italians were reported welcoming invasion or a separate peace as putting them out of their current misery.

As the invasion threat grows, it was said, the Italians talk more and more about their chances of getting out of the war.

"Many of them feel they are between two fires," these sources said. "They say, 'If we sued for peace today we would have only German bombers over our cities tomorrow instead of Allied planes.'"

"Rumors among the French civil population in North Africa Saturday that highly-placed Italian envoys were there asking for a separate peace were officially declared by Allied sources to be without basis."

Among all the wartime confusion, Pope Pius XII stood out as the most important figure in Italy. The informants said here, with the average Italian looking hopefully to him as "the man of the hour."

Because of the nearness of Vatican City, which leads to a popular belief Rome will not be bombed, the capital now is jammed with evacuees from other bombed cities, with lodging non-existent and food scarce.

Highway Patrolmen Make Six Arrests

State highway patrolmen made six arrests during the weekend for traffic violations.

Mayor R. R. Johnson fined Oscar Freske, 18, of Youngstown, $10 and costs on a speeding charge, and John R. Horn, 25, of 2192 E. Pershing st., charged with failure to observe a stop sign, drew a fine of $5 and costs.

Dale Blagg, 18, R. D. 1, East Palestine, arrested on a charge of driving with improper brakes, was fined $5 and costs by Mayor Arthur Myers at Columbiana.

Jack Perkins, 25, of Sebring, was fined $5 and costs for insufficient lights in Mayor Philip Schroeder's court in Sebring.

Pvt. Charles Taylor Interned By Japs

A war department message today confirmed the report that Pvt. Charles R. Taylor, son of Mrs. L. M. Taylor of R. D. 1, Salem, is a prisoner of the Japanese.

The Salem man, one of the first from this district to be reported missing in the Pacific, was a crewman on a bomber.

Also interned by the Japanese, according to the war department announcement, is Pvt. Olen J. Gilson, 1731 Grove st., East Liverpool.

THREE INJURED IN ROUTE 62 MISHAP

Car Driven by Margaret Carr Overturns After Collision Saturday

Minor injuries were received by occupants of a car driven by Miss Margaret Carr, 20, of 190 W. Pershing st., in a collision with an automobile driven by L. C. Hull, 40, of R. D. 4, Salem, at 9 p. m. Saturday on Route 62, one mile north of Salem.

Miss Carr's machine turned over after colliding with the Hull car in an attempt to pass it, the state patrol said.

Miss Jeanette Fisher, 19, 162 W. Pershing st., and Miss Jane Nonno, 17, also of Salem, and Miss Carr were treated at the Central Clinic for cuts and abrasions. No one in the other car was injured.

An accident at the intersection of Routes 30 and 170, north of East Liverpool, at 9 p. m. Sunday caused minor injuries to a Calcutta woman.

Cars driven by Thomas Calvin, 41, of Calcutta, and George Richey, 25, of R. D. 1, East Liverpool, collided and Mrs. Maggie Calvin, 41, riding in the Calvin car, was treated at East Liverpool City hospital for a deep forehead laceration.

EDITORIAL GROUP ENDS CONVENTION

CINCINNATI, June 21.—Delegates attending the National Editorial association war-time conference returned to their homes today after being told a new group of national policy makers, to be distinguished from "professional planners," is one of the underlying causes of confusion in Washington.

"Men of broad experience in contacting government agencies in behalf of business organizations say one of the greatest stumbling blocks to cooperation between industry and government is a group of newcomers drawn from business itself," declared William L. Daley, N. E. A. Washington representative.

"These newcomers have never achieved notable success in business but have quickly set themselves up as 'experts' and have taken advantage of their temporary posts," Daley said.

Naples Among Four Italian Cities Attacked. Rome Reports

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 21.—Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz' air fleets were declared officially today to have wrought new destruction upon Sicilian targets from Marsala to Messina straits—shooting down 16 Axis fighters in the process—and the Rome radio said Naples and four other Italian mainland cities also were raided yesterday.

The Italian high command communique, broadcast from Rome, said Naples, a major west coast supply port; Foggia, a railroad city near the spur of the Italian boot; Spinazzola, 45 miles to the southeast; and Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, on the toe of the boot, were attacked by Allied airmen yesterday.

(These raids were not reported in Allied announcements, but Italians have on occasion told of such thrusts before they were reported by Northwest Africa, Malta or Middle East communiques.

(The Algiers radio warned the Italian people in a broadcast today that Allied air blows, which have been largely confined to ports, would spread now to the interior.

"If you want to save your industries and see Italy restored to the position she deserves after the war," the announcer said, "demand peace and demonstrate for peace."

Fire Are Visible

The Northwest African Air Forces lost five planes during the fresh operations, which included a heavy assault on Messina Saturday night. Fires visible 100 miles away were started in the Messina railway freight yards and the ferry terminus area.

Aerial patrols over Pantelleria frustrated a new attempt by Axis fighter-bombers to break through and strike at the island's British garrison.

(A Saturday night attack by German bombers upon an Allied convoy off Cap Serrat, Tunisia, was reported in a DNB dispatch radioed from Berlin to have left six transports and merchantmen totaling 35,000 tons seriously damaged, one of them enveloped "in a huge cloud of smoke."

Steady strengthening of British and American forces in the Mediterranean zone again was indicated by a dispatch from La Linea, Spanish neighbor of Gibraltar. It said thirty more landing launches, each armed with two guns and carrying a crew of 25, left the British fortress for North Africa today. Some 70 merchantmen were reported in Gibraltar's harbor.)

Prepare Forms For Gasoline Renewals

CLEVELAND, June 21.—Within a day or two application blanks for the renewal of A and D gasoline ration books will be available at service stations, plant transportation committees and war price and rationing boards where each motorist should obtain a copy as soon as possible, Charles H. Schreiber, regional rationing executive announced today.

The renewals of the books will be handled exclusively by mail and inasmuch as present A books expire July 21 and because the boards will have thousands of applications to process in the ensuing month, applications should be "mailed promptly."

There are three steps which the applicant must follow to assure himself a new basic ration book on July 21:

Pick up an application blank. Fill it out accurately. Mail the application together with the back cover of the expiring ration book and the vehicle's old tire inspection record to his own war price and rationing board.

W. A. Maynard, district rationing officer, urged the 800,000 prospective northern Ohio applicants in his district to make sure that the serial numbers were accurately written in on the new form.

"These numbers may be copied from the old tire record as corrected at the time of the last inspection unless the applicant has acquired a new tire since then," Maynard said. "In this case, he should write in the new tire number and enclose part D of the tire purchase certificate with his renewal application."

He explained that the back cover of the expiring book was required as part of the application as it was evidence that the owner held a properly issued ration and was entitled to renewal.

HOLDING THE LINE IN COAL

The war labor board, rejecting all but minor points of the proposal to give coal miners a substantial wage boost, has done the unexpected. No one would have been surprised if the board had tried to ease itself out of a jam by granting the portal-to-portal pay demand as a substitute for the original demand for a $2 a day wage increase. Instead, the board has "held the line." It has blocked the way that otherwise would have been opened for every union group seeking higher wages to invent the equivalent of a portal-to-portal argument for getting a wage boost via the back door.

The government's position, backed by the new anti-strike bill awaiting President Roosevelt's signature and the war labor board's recommendation for a no-strike pledge covering miners, is tactically better than it has been at any previous time in the protracted negotiations over a new labor contract in the coal industry. The labor board, which was in danger of going to pieces under the weight of its responsibility, is still intact. The stabilization line is being held.

In fact, everything might be said to be in good order, except for one thing. The government does not know when the miners will be mining coal.

INDIA, A MILITARY POST

Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell's appointment as viceroy and governor-general of India will sharpen the international focus on the grand strategy of the war against Japan in the Pacific.

The implications of the Wavell appointment could be relatively slight, or they could be momentous, a prospect which will be examined closely by persons in a position to discover what is going on.

India is the closest available United Nations base for proceeding with the war against Japan on the continent. It is, moreover, a military problem in itself. Field Marshal Wavell, though he takes civilian status in order to occupy his new office, is one of Great Britain's capable military leaders. On the face of it, his appointment strongly suggests that it will be his responsibility to administer Indian affairs to the best advantage for the successful prosecution of the war, though the responsibility of fighting Japan will belong to the head of a new and separate command, while the defense of India will rest with Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck.

In any event, India's affairs now rest largely in the hands of men trained for the performance of military obligations, a circumstance that will not be overlooked, least of all by the Japanese.

CONGRESS AND OWI

The effects of office of war information's information on Europeans, Asiatics, South Americans, North Africans, Australians and members of the Axis cannot be determined. Probably no one will ever know.

Effects of the agency's domestic information, on the other hand, are well known. They are irritating. To some they are irritating to the point of dynamic anger. To others they are irritating as a picture hanging crooked is irritating—something that should be straightened out sometime.

It cannot be said that OWI has sold itself completely to anyone, but decidedly it has not made a favorable impression on congress as a whole. In this kind of a government that is serious, because congress must give agencies the money they spend.

The house has refused to appropriate money to continue the domestic function of OWI, which is as close to a vote of no-confidence as the legislative branch can come to in a government where governments are elected for fixed terms. Even if the senate now tries to undo the damage and restore the money, OWI will continue to be under attack.

Elmer Davis, its director, who recently laced out the press and seems to be edging toward the jobholders' characteristic conviction of his own infallibility, may have persuaded a lot of other people but he still hasn't persuaded the custodian of the public money he is spending.

WESTWARD-BOUND RUSSIA

Fragmentary reports of scattered skirmishes on the Russian front can't support conclusions yet, but they do support the reasonable surmise that the Red army does not plan to retreat this summer. There are signs to the contrary, even suggesting that in the summer of 1943 Russia may be westward bound, instead.

Russian reports mention growing strength and the possibility that Germany may be driven to adoption of the strategy of national warfare, in place of the offensive tactics that pierced the Russian front in 1941 and 1942. Air power is mentioned more frequently. The reports reflect a condition of confidence, in contrast to the non-committal communications when Germany was taking the offensive in the two previous summer campaigns.

Behind the news from the front is a significant change in information from Moscow. There has been no criticism of the Allied effort for many weeks; Premier Stalin apparently is satisfied at last with the assistance Russia is receiving. While it is not too late for Germany to launch an offensive and not impossible for the offensive to be successful, the tell-tale fact is that in the last third of June the war on the eastern front favors the Allies and does not favor the Axis.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, June 22

WHILE THERE are signs of progress, preferment and many sorts of advancement in the direction of cherished ambitions, it is advised that these may have to be worked for by well directed effort and proper organized plans. Sudden and surprising factors may arise calling for determination as well as astuteness and the aid of those in power. Readiness and preparation go far and may bring some token of public appreciation.

Those whose birthday it is have the presage of a very promising year for the attainment of their ambitious hopes and desires. But these may have to be wrested from a suddenly arising situation of a devastating or shattering quality, and which may demand astuteness.

Superiors, elders and those in high places may graciously abet such ingenuity and skill.

A child born on this day should have high ambitions and ideals, sustained by originality of thought and independence of action, attracting public approval and support from elders. It should be popular and progressive.

THE WAR TODAY

By MAX HILL

News dispatches from Moscow and the short wave broadcasts from Tokyo would give one the impression that all was well between those two obviously antagonistic countries.

Such is not the case, emphatically. They have nothing in common, much to quarrel about.

It is interesting to note it is Japan which is applying the "soft pedal" rather than the Russians, whose hatred for the Japanese is frequently expressed in no uncertain terms.

The Russians boldly describe the Siberian frontier between Manchuria and Chosen (Korea) as the Far Eastern front, as they have done since 1936, and they have kept two well-equipped armies out in that area despite the trials of the war with Germany.

Japanese hate and fear the Russians.

That hatred is shared by the Russians, but not the fear. The war with Germany has fortified their quiet confidence.

In the recent session of the diet in Tokyo Russia was not even mentioned in the short-wave broadcasts, although approval was given for a special bond issue of some 20 billion yen for special war purposes. For many years Japan has maintained an army of almost 1,000,000 men in Manchuria and Chosen, waiting for the proper time to strike.

The war with the United States and Great Britain disrupted the plans of her army but they have not forgotten the Russians.

Japan has only one time to attack Russia—the present. Next year probably will be too late, because the full force of America and Great Britain will be mobilized against her.

One factor is definitely on the side of the Japanese—distance.

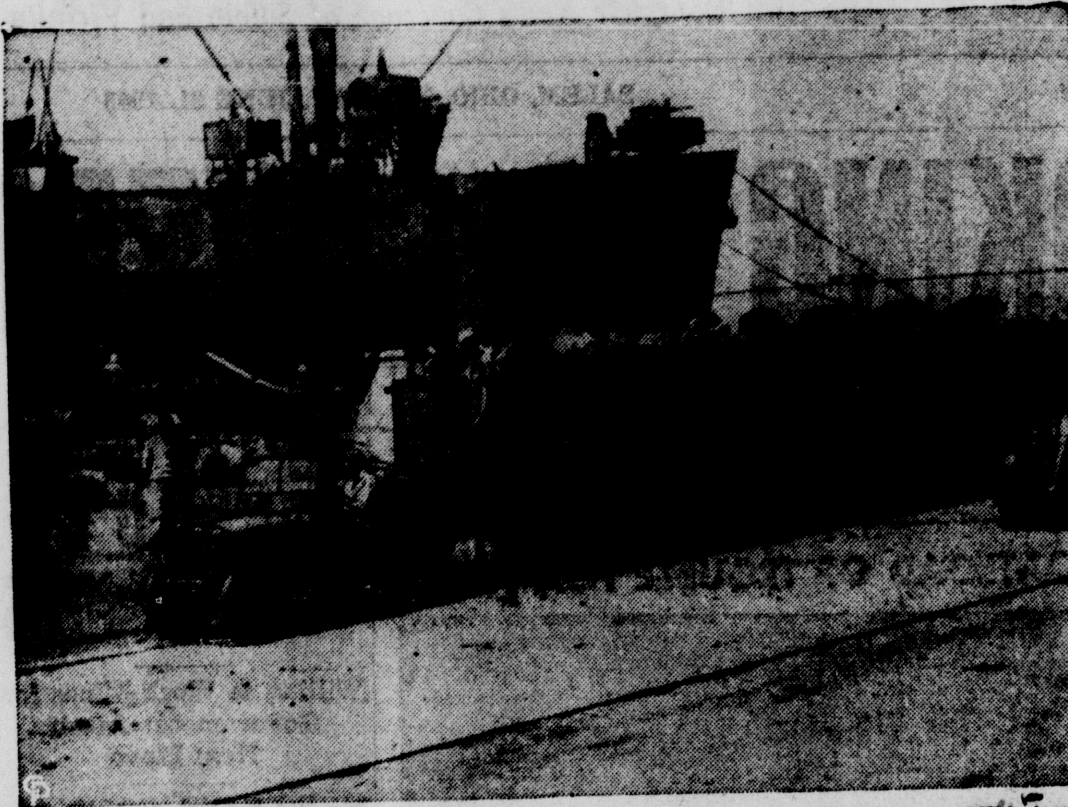

Vladivostok is a full 11 days journey by rail from Moscow, and the war time provinces are vulnerable. Perhaps Russia could not hold them long against a determined drive, but America's short-cut route via Canada, Alaska and Arctic Siberia is a potent factor the Japanese have not overlooked.

Russia is satisfied to maintain the present troubled but uncertain relations which prevail between her and Japan in the far east—but this may not be true of Japan.

She has too much at stake to permit the United Nations a probable avenue of attack through Siberia, and she may decide to strike to the north also in an attempt to complete the circle of bases she has around her home islands.

This is a factor in the global war which has been neglected recently, due to developments in Africa and Europe, but just the same it is a powder keg which might be touched off at any time.

THE VALUE OF X-RAY

Aids Physician in Diagnosing Cases

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I DO NOT believe that any discovery in science was ever made which strikes me as so entirely magical and wonderful as the X-ray. The revelations of the microscope, which have shown us a whole world of tiny living creatures which we would never see otherwise, is wonderful but I can make sense out of the microscope. But that a shaft of light could be devised which would go through opaque objects and reveal the contours of organs known only to the anatomist is certainly pure witchery.

I presume it has affected nearly everybody in the same way and that has exaggerated its value as a diagnostic procedure.

Not that I want to attempt to underrate its value. I should say that taking a series of medical and surgical cases, and assessing the value the diagnostician gets out of various procedures, the X-ray would come third. As I have been saying in this series, the patient's story of his own illness is the most important, what the doctor can see, feel and hear is second in importance and the X-ray comes third.

This is true in the first place because it is valuable in more kinds of cases than any other laboratory procedure. It is valuable to the bone surgeon, to the chest physician, to the heart physician, to the internist in diseases of the stomach and to the nose, throat and ear specialist.

Diagnostic Value

In a series of 100 patients the doctor, no matter what kind of doctor he is, will have to have a history in all of them. He will have to have a physical examination in all of them. And he will have to have an X-ray in about 50 per cent of them in order to be perfectly sure of the diagnosis.

It can perhaps best be illustrated by the common case of a fractured bone. The surgeon hears about the accident and knows what part of the body is injured and what part hurts. That is the history and to a certain extent limits his inquiry.

If it is in the leg, he can tell by feeling and looking at the leg pretty well whether it is a broken bone, a dislocation or a sprain. But he can not be perfectly certain until he has an X-ray and he can't be certain whether the bone is broken in one or two places, whether it is fragmented or not, unless he has an X-ray.

Use in Chest Work

In chest work it has been recognized for 20 years that only the X-ray can detect certain cases of tuberculosis, lung abscess and foreign bodies in the bronchial tubes.

Its use in heart disease is limited, but for confirmation it is always valuable.

Its value in stomach, intestinal and gallbladder disease is still more limited, but again it gives good confirmatory evidence.

The only limitation of the X-ray is that it tells anatomical details and gives very little information about the functional capacity of an organ. It can, for instance, tell you whether the heart is enlarged, but only by watching the patient walk and taking his blood pressure and noting the rate of his breathing can the physician tell what the functional capacity of a given patient's heart is.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. D. C.: What is Paget's disease of the bone? Is there a cure?

Answer: Paget's disease is a slow-growing increase in the thickness and density of the bones, particularly of the legs and skull. It usually does not come on until fairly late in life. One of the most conspicuous symptoms is that in a man he has to change the size of his hat from year to year. No methods of inducing regression are known.

S. S.: Please tell me the origin of chicken pox and where the germ is. Is a person past 70 likely to catch it?

Answer: The germ cause of chicken pox is unknown. It is generally considered to be a virus disease, the same as smallpox, shingles, and the common cold, but proof is lacking. Any adult who has never had an attack in childhood is liable. I have known it to occur in a person past 40, but never as old as 70.

TOYWORKERS NOW MAKING WAR TOOLS

From Kiddie Car Tires To Tank Tracks Big Jump For Ohio Plant

WILLOUGHBY—It is a pretty far cry from making parts for children's toys to fashioning tools of war, but employees of the Ohio Rubber Co. here have managed to do just that.

Before Pearl Harbor the company, which this year celebrates its 50th birthday, was busily engaged in turning out 70 per cent of the automobile running boards in the country.

The plant did a brisk business in hard rubber tires for kiddie cars and doll buggies. And, Ohio Rubber officials proudly point out, more rubber handbar grips for bicycles were made here than anywhere else in the U. S.

But now the company is knee-deep in the deadly serious task of producing tank tracks, life belts, and auxiliary fuel tanks for aircraft.

Line Conveyor Belt

Now women workers—housewives who never worked before, store clerks, teachers, and girls' just out of high school—line both sides of a huge conveyor belt, at one end of which women glue together the life belt parts.

A little farther along, valves are attached, and loops put on; others stamp directions for inflating, inspect and fold the hundreds of life savers the company produces each day.

Work in this factory comes naturally to its women workers, for it has a gigantic "kitchen," where the rubber for tank tracks is "cooked." Blins with all the ingredients, scales and mixers are all at hand for these master chefs.

Women hold their own, too, in Ohio Rubber's finishing departments. Here the farm-bred damsels grind the heavy tank track parts and send them off to the final assembly room, where they are fitted into monstrous 500-pound tank tracks, ready to be mounted on those lumbering machines of war.

Another group of employees works on the tracks which have come back from all the far-flung battle fronts, worn out in action in the South Pacific, or burned up on the African desert. Here they are reclaimed, vulcanized and remolded, ready to take up the fight again.

Build Fuel Tanks

Still another large department is engaged in producing auxiliary airplane fuel tanks, formerly made of steel. Now, because steel is so scarce, and because these tanks are released, when emptied, from the planes, they are made of a fiber which the company's research department developed.

Cheaper, and easier to produce than steel tanks, these fiber tanks are being turned out steadily by employees who work in pairs, shaping, painting and assembling them.

The workers at Ohio Rubber, who used to do such a crack job at turning out toys, figure they have a pretty big stake in this war, so the tank tracks roll off the assembly line at a phenomenal rate that puts their former production of bicycle tires to shame, and the life belt output has it all over the company's peacetime record in the handbar grip field.

Freedom of Press Set

—But With Limitations

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Col. Hobart B. Brown, commandant of the Third WAAC Training Center at nearby Fort Oglethorpe, laid down the following conditions in governing talks by the WAACs with members of the press.

"WAACs will not hike with those above the 38-age group or with those who are overweight, out-of-condition, and with those who hike in their best pants."

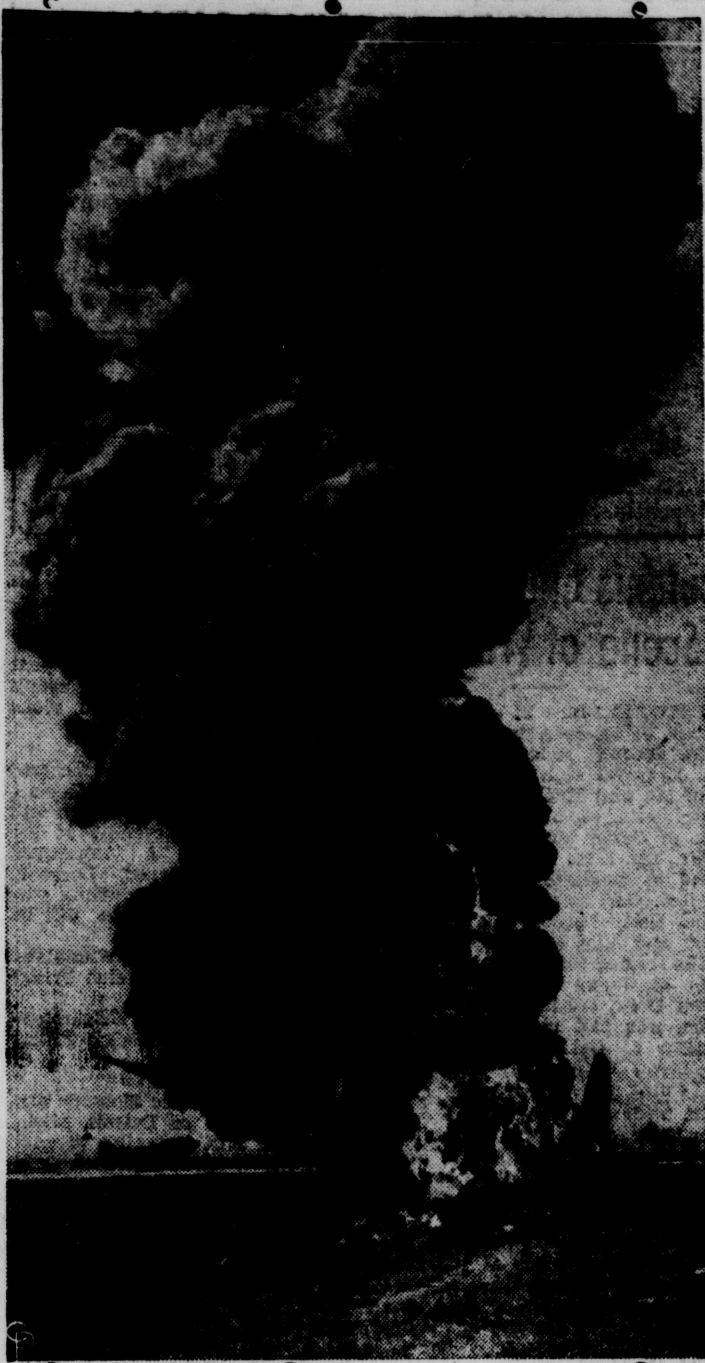

California's 1941 commercial output of mineral water came from 17 springs in 18 counties, amounting to 17,746,256 gallons, valued at $988,520.

Alien Population Of U. S. Dwindling Fast, Survey Shows

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA—The alien population of the United States is dwindling rapidly, an examination of census figures by the federal immigration and naturalization service has disclosed.

At the request of Leroy E. Snyder, assistant to the president of Gannett newspapers, the service examined census figures for 1940, 1930 and 1920 and discovered that in 1940 the relation of aliens to the total population in 1940 was approximately 3 per cent, whereas it had been 5.1 in 1930 and 7.1 in 1920.

The figures confirmed Snyder's suggestion to Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization Earl G. Harrison that "the decrease in immigration since the new laws became effective, plus the recent rapid increase of naturalization, would show some startling changes in the percentages of alien population."

Jerre Mangione, special assistant to Commissioner Harrison, replied: "There is no doubt about it; the alien population is rapidly dwindling."

"Especially significant in this connection is the fact that the median age of aliens is 48 years while that of native-born and naturalized citizens is 28 years. While our total population has increased from 106,000,000 citizens in 1920 to approximately 132,000,000 in 1940, the alien population decreased in the same period from more than 7,000,000 to less than 5,000,000. Inasmuch as approximately 250,000 aliens are being naturalized every year and since immigration has virtually stopped, the non-citizen population is obviously on the wane."

Kitten, Given As Pet, Grows Up Into Wildcat

MYRTLE POINT, Ore.—A year ago Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Endicott were given a kitten, Stubby, which they decided to raise as a pet.

Today Stubby weighs 22 pounds, being a wild cat. However, Stubby takes to domesticity as avidly as any tabby, riding around the house perched on the shoulders of its owners and opening doors with a technique all its own. The only streak of wildness is a penchant for tearing up its bedding every time "the linen" is changed.

Waves Taught To Become Link Trainer Instructors

BY SANDOR S. KLEIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The cute little trick in blue stepped from the cockpit and walked up to a desk where another, equally comely young lady was studying a chart.

"Well," inquired the C. L. T.

"How'm I doing?"

"Not bad," replied the other young lady, still perusing her chart. "You failed to check in while you were over Greensboro. That's bad. And you flew at four thousand feet on the Washington leg of the range. The flight plan called for 3,000 feet."

They were dead serious about this, these girls who in the near future will be responsible for the training of Naval aviation cadets in the art of blind flying with radio navigational aids.

To Replace Pilots

That conversation I overheard during a brief stop at the Atlanta aviation training base where hundreds of women reservists—Waves and Marines—are under training as instructors on Link Trainers. They will replace pilots now performing that function. The amazing thing about it all is that these young women are not fliers and probably won't do any flying during the time they are in the service.

The Link Trainer is an ingenious device to teach green fliers how to stay on course by using radio aids to navigation. It resembles a chunk of plane fuselage and contains a cockpit with a standard instrument panel. The student is locked into the cockpit under a hood, and he must operate the controls to carry out a simulated flight involving the use of navigational instruments.

It's no cinch to "fly" one of these land-bound crates. I found out they were pretty "hot" to handle during a 10-minute tussle with the controls. When I emerged, I found that I had gone off my course at least as many times, and dusted off the tree tops during a good part of my brief flight. The attractive young instructor, who put me through my paces, shook her head sadly as I stepped sheepishly from the cockpit.

Adept In Control Tower
Most of the base instructors are civil service girls. They were trained for the job of developing instructors months before the Waves were organized. Many of the original group joined the Waves and are now back in the school-taking the instructors' course they once taught.

Other members of the Navy and Marines women reserves are being taught the intricacies of control tower operations. Because of the importance of control tower directions in the landing and take-off of planes, these girls face important responsibilities. And they will have nerve-racking jobs.

Navy officers said that in some cases the women are doing better than men in control tower work. For one thing, most of them have better voices for the kind of radio transmission used. A large number of the trainees were formerly long-distance telephone operators.

At the present time, there are about 400 young women in training. The course covers 10 weeks. The program is being expanded to turn out 112 instructors each week.

Here's the clincher for me

This is my kid.

He's a pretty good kid.

I always used to figure he'd get along all right in the world, the same way I did.

But a war starts you thinking.

Nobody knows for sure just what kind of a world my kid will have to grow up in. But whatever kind of a world it is, a little money behind him will help.

That's why I'm saving money away for him now.

I'm not taking any chances with his future. I'm guaranteeing it in the best way I know how.

Every pay day, nearly a quarter of what I make goes into War Bonds. Not just when I can spare it. But every single pay day—week in, week out.

It's taken right out of my pay, on the Payroll Savings Plan. That way, I hardly miss it. But it mounts up fast.

And every one of those War Bonds will pay back four dollars for three.

Pay it back when my kid may need it most.

Sure, I'd be buying bonds anyway. I know the Government needs money to win the war. And, it's the least sacrifice a guy can make for the country that's been good to him.

But the clincher with me is my kid.

Chances are, you're already in the Payroll Savings Plan—buying War Bonds—doing your bit. But don't stop there. Raise your sights! Do your best!

How millions of Americans have done their bit—and how they can do better

Of the 34 million Americans on plant pay rolls, nearly 30 million of them have joined the Payroll Savings Plan. (If you aren't in yet—sign up tomorrow!)

Those Americans who have joined the Plan are investing, on the average, 10% of their earnings in War Bonds. (If you haven't reached 10% yet—keep trying!)

BUT . . . . .

America's income this year will be the highest in history—about 125 BILLION dollars! In spite of all taxes and price rises, the average worker will have more money than last year—more than ever before!

That is why Uncle Sam has a right to ask us, individually, to invest more money in War Bonds, through the Payroll Savings Plan. He asks us to invest not 10% or 15% or 20%, but all we can!

PRINTS SURE FIRE FASHION HITS IN ALL VERSIONS

Left, Faye Emerson modeling casual print dress; center, Evelyn Keyes wearing redingote in green and beige, solid color beige dress; right, Leslie Brooks in printed afternoon frock, perfect for service bride.

This season prints are the practical, all-day choice, and appear as suits, dresses, redingotes, play clothes. They are sure fire fashion hits in every version. There are designs this season that can slim down your figure or round it out, depending upon what is needed. Faye Emerson, left above, chose a one-piece model of synthetic fabric with aquamarine background splashed with large white flowers. It has short sleeves and full skirt. Evelyn Keyes, center, selected a costume that can be used for two distinct outfits. It consists of a printed redingote with beige flowers on moss green crepe, which has alluring lines, and a beige dress which can be worn separately. Leslie Brooks, right above, models the perfect costume for the service bride, a sheer afternoon dress which has a green background with a design in white of grapes and leaves. It can be worn shopping, for luncheon or for informal dances.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Ann slept on, accustomed as she was to a model's late hours.

Julia ate a substantial breakfast in the living-room, denying herself the pleasure of turning on the radio.

She then washed the dishes, swept and dusted the living-room, and put everything in shape—which were chores she despised.

But with money in the family—which meant Vince—everything would be different, she reflected.

She then took a shower, without waking Ann. Her sister's lavish make-up box was in the bathroom. It had been a gift from the firm to their best model, and now Julia, with great gusto, availed herself of all its various beauty-aids.

During the week she had little time for such intensive creaming, stimulating, patting and what-have-you. But with time on her hands, and the wish to be tops with Ann, in her soul, Julia really did a top-notch job at bringing out her best points.

She applied the shadow-paste with a reddish tinge above her fine brown eyes. That made them seem much larger, more exotic.

There were five shades of foundation cream in the box, suitable for blonde or brunette or in-between. She experimented with the darker but more glowing tones. Because her nose was just a little on the broad side, she put a line of light foundation down its bridge, to the tip, then narrowed its sides with a darker application.

Her jaw was much too strong and square, so there the deepest tone of all was applied. The correct and accompanying shades of powder she then dabbed on the right spots, and blended.

For rouge and lipstick, she selected a garnet tone. Black liquid mascara she brushed lightly on her lashes. Her brows were all right as they were. She wisely let them alone.

Starting at the finished product in the bathroom mirror, Julia was well aware that if it weren't for Ann being so lovely, she herself had more than definite possibilities.

"But no worthwhile beauty! No real offers!" she reflected, with another tinge of bitterness against fate.

As she tiptoed out of the bathroom and into the cupboard, and into a red-and-white housecoat that belonged to Ann, she again heard someone coming up their stairway, and padded out quickly to find that it was Vince in person!

"S-sh! Ann's asleep. Come in!" Julia held open the door.

Vince looked about the living-room. He said anxiously: "Didn't my kisses get her yet, Julia?"

"Sure," she inclined her head to the closed bedroom door. "When our pet opens her blue eyes, she'll see a couple dozen of 'em nodding at her from every little nook and cranny—and if that doesn't melt her hard heart, what will?"

He grinned. "You're a swell gal, Julia. For the way you acted last night—standing by me, and all—darned if I shouldn't have sent you some flowers. It isn't too late yet—"

He made for the telephone—"or child?"

"No. You'll wake her. Sit down." "But I'd like to give you a little memento, Julia. I was really tight last night. You rate an apology. Something practical?" he insisted.

"What'd you fancy?"

"You—as a brother-in-law," she smiled.

Nothing could have pleased Vince better than Julia's answer. He patted her on the shoulder, telling her that not only was she a swell egg, but in great good looks this morning. That gave her an idea.

"If you really do want to give me a brotherly present, Vince—and it's mighty sweet of you to suggest it after giving me that gown and all —Marks-Park Avenue gave Ann a gorgeous beauty-box. They still have them in the show room. They are named Lovely Lady."

"I'll order one for you today. I'll have them deliver it here."

"Thanks, Vince. I'm due to take off tomorrow on the plane, you know," Julia said.

"Wotta life!" Vince sympathized. "What a wind-up to the weekend! The very thought of it gives me the jitters!"

"Would you like a hair of the dog?" Julia inquired. Vince exhibited the well-known symptoms of the morning-after. A drink might pull him together. She didn't want Ann to see he had a hangover.

"Smart girl!" he grinned. "Just a little quick one in the kitchen to restore the old equilibrium."

"Will you fix you a silver fizz," the ever-practical Julia said. "I'll fix you one with a good kick in it—but remember, only one!" she warned him.

"Right!" He sipped it lovingly. "This certainly hits the spot, and puts me back on the flying trapeze. Which reminds me, my car was gone this morning. Seems our flying friend drove himself back to his airport in it. He has a nerve!"

"No! I told him to. Don't you know it was he who took you back to the yacht?"

"So? He smuggled the body aboard?" His faithful valet told me some such story, but I didn't get the exact low-down as I came out of the old terror this dawning. It was the fellow at the pier-garage who told me," said Vince, draining his life-aver.

"He's very good-looking," Julia reflected.

"Who? That mug at the pier?" "No. Jim Brent, I mean."

"Ho, according to Ann? You think—" he set down his glass on the kitchen table—"the wind blows from that quarter?" And he stared at Julia with knitted brow.

She didn't reply.

"You think he's a four-star menace? That Ann's panicked by him?" anxiously persisted Vince.

"I don't know. I think he bears watching. He has that piquant touch of glamour. I'm worried, because I think Ann deserves a break. I think she rates the glass slipper, and a future that not only her beauty but her lovely character entitles her to, though she never gives a thought to money! She's romantic, that's what!" averred Julia.

A pause. Vince broke it, gloomily. "I s'pose I ought to know a gate when it's handed me."

Alarmed, Julia said: "Don't get me wrong, Vince. I still think you have a swell chance with my sister, if only—"

"Spill it! I wish," said Vince vehemently. "that I hadn't fallen for her so hard! I may have a granite exterior, but the truth is I'm a pushover for her!"

Julia patted his hand. "I think you're a grand guy, Vince. I'm your ally, remember."

"But if she's really fallen for this he-man panic, I guess I'd best bow out—and let there be no moaning at the parting of the ways!"

"Nonsense! Where's your spirit? The thing to do is edge him out of the picture. I mean, finesse the old hand. We'll have an ally in Lotus Willard now she's ditched Hank Bruger and—unless I miss my guess—is burning to get her talons in Jim now!"

A hopeful gleam came into Vince's small eyes.

"Ann's proud as Lucifer, isn't she? She wouldn't stand for any hot competition with a married woman, eh?"

"Sure she wouldn't," Julia egged him on. "And now for a practical suggestion. What say, when Ann wakes up, we coax her to the yacht for fresh air and a dip, followed by luncheon?"

"She'd still be mad at me after last night," he said gloomily. "I made a holy show of myself. I guess she won't come."

"Oh, she isn't that hard!" Julia quickly said. "When she wakes up, she'll remember that she put on a pretty bad show herself last night, right here at the show-down! You aren't the only one who's going to be embarrassed," she added encouragingly.

At the sound of a movement in the bedroom, she hastily cautioned Vince to stay where he was. "And don't dare to touch another drop of liquor while I'm boosting your stock with Ann!" she warned him.

She slipped in at the bedroom door, closing it behind her.

Ann was standing by the bureau daintily sniffing the fragrance of Vince's roses.

"Oh, Julia, aren't they simply gorgeous!" she exclaimed. "Are they yours? Or mine? Or for both of us? And whoever sent them?"

"A repentant sinner," said Julia. She saw Ann's face fall, and then thought ruefully: She was hoping they were from Jim.

"You mean—Vince?"

"Yes. And don't turn on the tears. Hop right back into bed. You put on a terrific act yourself last night, so don't be snooty about poor Vince's peace-offering. Meantime, I'll bring you your breakfast and his note," said Julia, briskly.

She returned in a jiffy with the tray she had prepared. It bore a tall glass of chilled orange juice, French croissants, squares of butter, and in a silver covered jug, Ann's favorite safe-au-lait.

Also the Mexican pottery cart with the rose sticking up in it. Round the donkey's neck hung Vince's note that Julia had tied with a bit of blue ribbon.

The receipt of flowers in all their freshness, their beauty, their glory, seems to stir a more deep-seated response, turns thoughts to the sender in a way unequalled.

It is easy to find the proper flower gift for the occasion whatever it may be. You may rely on the experience and the judgment of Endres & Gross, who have specialized in this type of service for many years.

Deck Rocking Chair Company Kept Busy

There are many very busy manufacturers these days but none that are more swamped with business than the Deck Rock Chair company at 804 E. Third st.

Here N. C. Boarts and L. H. Hirst are putting in many hours trying to keep up with the well-earned demand for their Deck Chair that actually rocks, and the building of other lawn furniture.

If there ever was an improvement in a deck chair, these men certainly have the credit coming to them for this chair is well built of hard wood bolted together and it does rock just as easy as any other chair, not a glider or coaster motion.

Their lawn chairs are also an improvement, being made of first quality pine and painted to withstand the weather, so designed that they are really comfortable and roomy.

Crowds Assemble At Lake Placencia

If you doubt that hundreds enjoy the many advantages for pleasure Lake Placencia presents, just drive by the park any Saturday evening. The crowds there will be sufficient proof.

You are missing some mighty good times though if you don't join in. The dance hall is always filled, the music is good, the crowd out for a good time, no stiff formal affair and you are welcome.

If it's swimming that attracts you you are sure to be delighted with the fresh water that beckons. Kiddies are busy on the slides or wading, while the experienced use the spring boards of several heights. All are protected by qualified life guards. When the expense is considered, it is little wonder that so many make it their summer headquarters for a good time day or evening.

American League Race Tighter Than Pair Of New Shoes

Teams Moving Up And Down Like An Elevator; Indians Have Soared To 3rd Place

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

This year's pennant race in the American League may become historic as the tightest the major leagues have ever seen.

The eight clubs are separated by only eight games and six of them are bunched within 2½.

Starting shifts have been going on in the standings as a result. The Cleveland Indians, who were in seventh place before they started play Saturday, had soared into third at the close of competition yesterday.

The Boston Red Sox, who dragged along near the bottom for weeks, bounced blithely into the first division. The Chicago White Sox, who were third 10 days ago, dropped into a tie with the St. Louis Browns for last place.

The greatest distance between any two clubs is the three games separating the first place New York Yankees and the Second Place Washington Senators.

Yesterday the Yanks and Senators tangled in a doubleheader, Washington winning the first 5-3 and New York took the second 7-6. Wildness by Charley Wenzeloff and Ernie Bonham gave the Senators the opener. After Mickey Vernon had hit a two-run homer in the sixth, they walked five men to force in two runs. The Yanks clinched the nightcap with five runs in the second inning, climaxed by Charley Keller's second home run of the day and his tenth of the year.

Cleveland and the White Sox also split, Chicago nailing the first 10-6 and Cleveland the second 7-2.

Boston swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Athletics 7-3 and 6-5 with an attack that included five home runs. Jim Tabor hit two to highlight the first game and Babe Barna got one with one on to decide the second.

The Browns downed Detroit twice 6-3 and 5-4 with homers figuring importantly. Chet Laabs hit one with two aboard to decide the first game and Harold Cliff duplicated the feat in the afterpiece.

Pittsburgh sunk the Reds with a double victory yesterday, 5-4 and 4-2, and the Pirates ascended to third place.

The Phillies swept two at Boston 13-7 and 7-0, scoring 10 runs in the seventh inning of the first game and getting a dazzling three-hit pitching performance from Schoolboy Rowe in the nightcap.

The Brooklyn Dodgers nosed out the New York Giants 8-7 in a single game that went 10 innings before a hit by Augie Galan drove home the deciding run.

This cut the first place margin of the St. Louis Cardinals to 2½ games as the world champions divided a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs. The first was a wild affair in which 10 pitchers were used, the Cards winning 10-9 with a six-run rally after two were out in the eighth.

The second game, abbreviated to five innings by weather, went to the Cubs 2-1.

Sports Picture At a Glance

(By Associated Press) Haegg of Sweden ended Greg Rice's victory string at 65 by defeating American runner by 40 meters in 5,000 meter race for National A.A.U. championship before 19,000.

Haegg was timed in 14:48.5, more than a minute slow than his own world record. New York A.C. retained team title and Gil Dodds took 1,500 meter title again.

CHICAGO—Ted Collins, manager of Radio Singer Kate Smith, awarded Boston franchise in National Football league, effective at close of 1943 season. Los Angeles' bid for berth in Los Angeles and Charles Murray's request for one at Buffalo, tabled until December meeting. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia teams to merge for coming season.

DETROIT—Seymour Greenberg of Chicago retained national clay courts title by defeating Billy Talbert of Cincinnati, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. Pauline Betz of Los Angeles retained women's crown.

MONTCLAIR, N. J.—Francisco Segura, Ecuadorian representing the University of Miami, annexed eastern intercollegiate tennis title by defeating Bob Wasserman of Ohio State, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2, and combined with Manfred Berliner to take doubles title.

INDIANS TO PLAY AT GREAT LAKES

Third-Place Tribe Stops Off Before Opening Series At Detroit

(By Associated Press) GREAT LAKES, Ill., June 21.—The up-and-down Cleveland Indians came to Chicago in seventh place last Friday but today the Redskins were in sole possession of third position after winning four of five games with the White Sox.

The Tribe closed the series yesterday by dividing a doubleheader and moved here today for an exhibition contest with the Great Lakes Bluejackets. Joe Heving will hurl against the Sailors. The Indians rest tomorrow before traveling to Detroit to open a series with the Tigers.

Chicago halted the Indians' six-game winning streak by taking the opener of yesterday's twin bill 10 to 6, but Jim Bagby's six-hit hurling performance sparked Cleveland to a 7 to 2 triumph in the afterpiece.

A seven-run rally in the fourth inning kayoed the Redskins in the opener. The Tribe started the scoring and led 3 to 0 going into the last of the third, but the Sox chased Allie Reynolds from the mound with a pair of runs and hit the jackpot in the following stanza against Pete Center and Al Milnar. Center's exit from the field marked the end of his string of 14 hitless innings in relief roles. Rookie Pat Seery, slammed a homer in the final inning but it was a wasted effort.

The Indians returned to the win column in the nightcap as Bagby notched his seventh triumph of the season against four losses. The big homer was Mike Rocco's two-run blast into the lower right field seats in the sixth and Ken Keltner's circuit clout in the eighth.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The rest of Gunder Haegg's races in this country won't be much more than exhibitions, but they'll be worth the price of admission—the guy is a real showman. He was the last man on the track for yesterday's race and the last man off, but in between his bright yellow sweatshirt and blue pants and his long hair flopping with every step brought down the house. . . . And to top it off, he apologized to newspapermen for his poor performance—and for his chilly attitude toward them while he was in training. . . . The chances for more Haegg-Rice races this summer don't look good right now. Rice said he'd like another shot at Gunder but Maritime service officers hinted that he won't have any more time to get into condition than he did before this race. . . . And Greg isn't the kind of guy to ask for extra time off—even though he could get it.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR
John Mooney, Salt Lake Telegram: "Hal Trosky, former Indian first sacker who quit because of severe headaches, wants to join the club again. It would be unique, at that, to have someone with the 1943 Cleveland not susceptible to headaches."

MONDAY MATINEE

Lieut. Larry French of the Navy and oil-salesman Jimmy Fox are playing sandlot baseball these weekends for the South Orange, N. J., club. . . . And they don't even get a cut when the hat is passed during the games. That money goes to the local American Legion post. . . . Jerry Cooper, who has sung on national radio hookups for 10 years, says that nobody ever knew him until he sang the Star-Spangled Banner at the Garden on fight nights. Now everywhere he goes folks recognizes the name immediately.

Indians To Conduct Carrollton School

The Cleveland Indians will sponsor a baseball school at the fairgrounds in Carrollton next Saturday, with the morning session slated to get under way at 9 and the afternoon session at 2.

Bill Bradley, head of the Tribe scouting staff, will be there to look over the talent and all young ball players in this district are eligible to attend. Bats and balls will be furnished but candidates must bring their own gloves and shoes.

Scouts On Trail

ATHENS, N. Y.—Baseball scouts have their eyes on 17-year-old Anthony Del Cicco, Athens High school pitcher, who recently pitched two no-hit, no-run games in one week.

Del Cicco, a southpaw, has been in the unscouted Hudson Valley League—made up of nearby high schools. He fanned 51 batters and only two balls have been hit out of the infield this season.

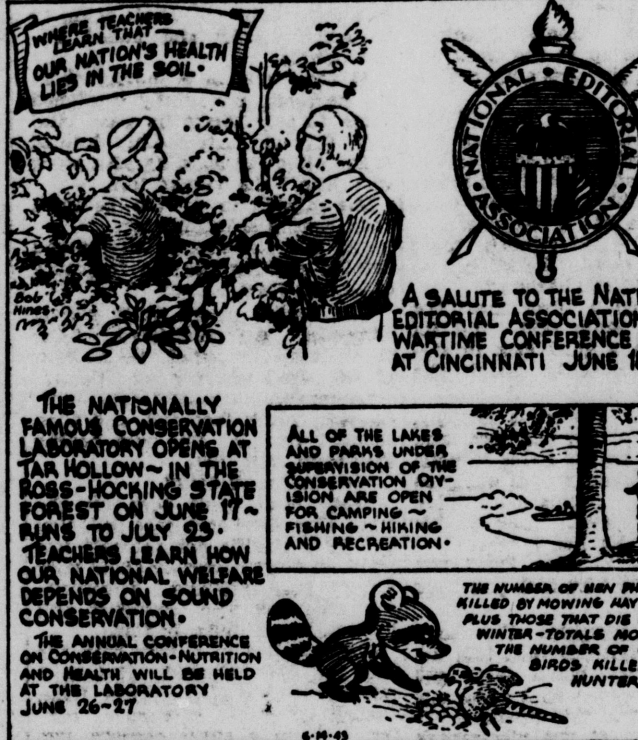

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—When Louis Roosevelt Slocum, 42, had amnesia and could not remember his name, he chose as his new one "Lyle Howard Smith" which has served so well since 1920, that he has asked the court to legalize it. Since his recovery, he told the court, he has learned that he has five brothers around Grand Rapids, Mich.

Under Ohio Skies

AS TOLD BY THE CONSERVATION DIVISION

THE NATIONALLY FAMOUS CONSERVATION LABORATORY OPENS AT TAYLOR-HOLLOMAN IN THE ROSS-HOCKING STATE FOREST ON JUNE 17-19. TEACHERS LEARN HOW OUR NATIONAL WILDLIFE DEPENDS ON SOUND CONSERVATION.

SOME SETS HAVE BEEN SOLD FOR AS MUCH AS $20.

It's a strange—but familiar—sight to see a soldier carrying a butterfly net, but this profitable spare-time hobby is becoming more popular daily. Even the moon, which brings nuisance raids and robs troops of sleep, is being described by the soldiers as the biggest and brightest they have ever seen. During a recent raid, I saw several Americans whose blackjack game had been stopped by a "lights out" order move their table outside where the game was continued.

Nearest to "Shangri-la"
I reached this 72-acre island paradise by sailing by lugger. Here there is comfort and—at present—peace in the midst of a bitter war. Master of this closest thing I've found to James Hilton's "Shangri-la" is Cambridge graduate Cecil Abel, who was born on this island where, 53 years ago, his father established a mission headquarters and made cricket instead of head-hunting the principal recreation of the natives.

Abel has a sprawling, cool home on a hilltop with all the conveniences of a city mansion. He has his own cattle, sheep, pigs and goats and grows an abundance of fruits, vegetables. Intelligent natives, speaking English with a British accent, take care of your slightest need and prepare and serve tasty dishes on linen-covered tables with old English china and sterling silver tableware.

Abel's home, while not elaborate, has electric lights, a telephone and soft beds—and the greatest luxury of all for this country—modern plumbing including a hot shower and a flush toilet.

Self-Contained Mission
Before the war, this interdenominational mission—with many American supporters—had a large staff of Europeans, including a doctor, agriculturist, engineers, nurses, a stone mason, boot cobbler and a printer. The mission operated 21 posts and out-stations at plantations along the eastern coast of Papua and had extensive holdings of coconut and rubber trees.

The mission has its own modern sawmill and farm. Sawmill workers are predominantly commuters; however, instead of traveling to work on buses, trains and street cars, the Papuans, who usually live in villages on the larger islands a few miles away, paddle their outrigger canoes to sea, frequently battling rough seas.

Last month, the natives of this area purchased from their meager incomes nearly $1,000 in Australian government bonds. Most of the contributions were small, of course, but almost everyone participated. One withered old native woman—a mat weaver—gave all the money she possessed, $7, which she had saved from prewar needle work.

The natives have a ready market in Allied troops for curios, but most of them are too busy to weave mats, baskets or turn out grass skirts.

Yanks Collect Butterflies
Abel's pet project is the construction of a stone church as a memorial to his father. The shell is now completed after several years work of cutting each stone by hand.

On the Papuan mainland I also paused off the beaten path at clean, well-equipped government stations. Usually there is a village nearby where the natives gather at night to sing and dance.

There are many oddities here for the American troops. For instance, there is a luminous mushroom which gives off a bright green ray for as long as 24 hours after being picked. There are butterflies and moths with a wingspread of as much as 15 inches which the soldiers are collecting and mounting.

CINCY REDS HOST TO CARDINALS IN NIGHT ENCOUNTER

Sunday Jinx Trails Red-legs As They Lose Two To Pittsburgh

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, June 21.—The Cincinnati Reds bring the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals to their home lot tonight for a single contest under the lights.

That Sunday jinx caught up with the Cincinnati outfit again yesterday when they dropped a doubleheader to the Pittsburgh Pirates in the Smoky City to go tumbling into the second division.

The Buccos came streaking from behind in the eighth round to win the opener, 5 to 4, and pulled the same trick in the same inning of the nightcap to triumph 4 to 2, before 27,392 partisans.

Eddie Fletcher's mighty three-run homer sent Johnny Vander Meer and his cohorts into defeat in the eighth of the lid-lifter.

Ed Heusser, who pitched four-hit shutout ball in the second game up to the fatal eighth, showed signs of tiring and Manager McKechnie replaced him with Joe Begg.

The Pirates gleefully leaped on his offerings and those of his successors, Clyde Shoun and Vernon Stone, for five hits and four runs.

Truett "Rip" Sewell, master of five different types of slow pitches, went the route for the Buccos in the opener to ring up his eighth triumph of the season.

Rookie Jack Hallett, who leaves baseball Tuesday for the Navy, started the second game, but was relieved in the seventh by Xavier Rescigno, who was followed by Johnny Lanning.

BOSTON—Al Simmons, the Boston Red Sox's venerable outfielder, is the American League's only runs-driven-in-champion still on the active rosters of the clubs in the junior loop.

Prague, capital of Czechoslovakia, has a wealth of medieval architecture equalled by few other European cities.

SIX KILLED, MANY INJURED IN RIOT

Police Believed To Have Detroit Situation Now Under Control

"Ninety per cent of them Negro," and that there were several minor fights during the day. Turner said he believed a minor squabble on the bridge in the midst of the traffic jam probably caused the outbreak.

Disorder Spreads

The disorder spread to Jefferson ave. and then into the main Negro district, which lies immediately east of Woodward ave., Detroit's main street, which runs approximately north and south.

In an effort to control the situation, several hundred sailors from the Naval academy which adjoins the Belle Isle bridge were strung in a line across Jefferson ave., blocking off traffic.

The 1940 U. S. census gave Detroit 149,119 Negroes out of a total population of 1,623,452.

In the Negro district police estimated that 20 taxicabs had been stoned or overturned, and said that numerous store windows were broken. By dawn about 1,500 police were on duty there.

The receiving hospital in downtown Detroit was jammed with injured persons, mostly suffering from head bruises and knife wounds. There have been a number of minor racial incidents in Detroit during recent months and several strikes have occurred at war factories over the racial issue on production lines.

The double-V committee, a Negro organization, issued a public appeal at 4:30 a. m. addressed to the "Negroes of Detroit," and stating: "Despite incidents which occur which are exceedingly unjust, unfair and discriminatory against our group, we must not resort to violence or give way to race hatred."

County War Board Helps Farmers As Draft Calls Labor

County USDA war boards have been selected as technical advisers to Selective Service boards and have been charged with the responsibility of recruitment, replacement, transfer, and utilization of agricultural workers, according to George H. Rogers, chairman of the Columbiana county board.

The first duty of a war board is to maintain farm production. Its connection with selective service is to assist necessary farm workers in preparing applications for deferment. The war board is not a classification and deferment board; that is the duty of the selective service board.

A form has been prepared for a record of the data on the farm whereon the registrant lives or is employed. This may be secured at the county AAA office or the county extension office. This form will be used to provide information on the registrant's efforts in food production.

County Extension Agent Floyd Lower, Lisbon, is charged with the responsibility of finding replacements for agricultural workers placed in Class 2 or 3C in Columbiana county. At such time as replacements can be found, the registrant will be called into active service in the armed forces. It is the duty of every registrant to file an application for his own replacement with the county agent. This insures protection for both agriculture and food production, because he then has the privilege of stating the full qualifications of the man needed to fill his place so that production on the farm will be maintained at the usual level when he leaves.

Under present selective service laws there is no such thing as exemption for farmers, factory workers or anyone engaged in any other occupation. A man can only be deferred, and a deferment will last only as long as it is impossible to replace the registrant in his particular field of work.

Transcontinental air service was inaugurated in Canada in 1939 when the first planes took off on flights of 3,500 miles.

Army Air Force Relies On Youth

(By International News Service)

RAPID CITY, S. D.—The U. S. Army Air Corps' great reliance on youth is reflected in the recent appointment of Major Ellis E. Eno, commanding officer at the Rapid City air base, one of the largest tactical posts in the Second Air Force.

At 31, Major Eno is believed to be the youngest commander of any post the size of the Rapid City base within continental United States. Several years of civilian and military experience in aeronautics combined to prepare the major for the job.

He formerly was base executive officer and plans and training officer at Wendover Field, Utah. He received his civilian pilot's license when he was 16.

Major Eno's father and mother, his brother and his wife are recognized civilian pilots. The major owns the Eno Airport at Fort Dodge, Ia., where the major's wife serves as a dispatcher.

PRESS HEAD CITES DANGERS OF SUIT

News Agency To File Affidavits In Answer To Government Charges

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 21.—The Associated Press prepared today to file a hundred affidavits in opposition to a government motion for summary judgment in the anti-trust civil action against the non-profit, cooperative news gathering agency.

Other affidavits also were placed in the record by the Chicago Tribune, a co-defendant which has made a separate answer to the government charges seeking to open AP membership to all who are willing and able to pay their share of the cost.

Arguments on the summary judgment motion, by which the government seeks a decision against the AP without the taking of testimony from witnesses in open court trial, are scheduled to be heard by a three-judge federal court July 8.

Cooperative Endeavor
Chief among the AP affidavits was one prepared by Frank B. Noyes, publisher of the Washington Star and president of the AP for 38 years until 1938, who declared "it was not contemplated by the men who organized the AP that all newspapers in the United States should become members," but that it was recognized that in order to establish "a true cooperative organization, the members must have the opportunity to select their own associates."

"Based upon my experiences of 50 years with the press associations and as a newspaperman," Noyes said, "it is my judgment that it is not possible to maintain an unbiased, complete and accurate news report unless there exists, to set the standard of such a report, a mutual cooperative non-profit organization whose members voluntarily joined together, control the operations of the organization."

Noyes declared to compel the AP to serve all comers would bring about a condition "fraught with the gravest danger to the freedom of the press and, in turn, to the freedom of the people."

In general the affidavits replied to 24 affidavits filed by the government in support of its motion made May 25 and challenged the government contention that the AP should serve every newspaper. They included numerous declarations from editors and publishers subscribing to news services other than AP who said they found non-membership in AP no bar to successful newspaper operations.

State Sovereignty Keynotes Meeting of U. S. Governors

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 21.—The sovereignty of the individual states in war and peace—keynoted the 35th annual governors' conference opening here today.

In succession, visiting chief executives made these assertions in prepared addresses: Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland, conference chairman: "The states must be preserved in the fullest plenitude of their powers. That government which is closest to the people and in which the people have the most direct participation is more likely to reflect the public will than a remote centralized government."

Gov. Earl Warren of California: "I wish that federal agencies could be made to see that federal, state and local governments must work together as a team; that all thinking, planning and execution cannot be done in Washington to the exclusion of states and cities."

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York: "Attacking the farm labor problem of New York, 'one of our happy discoveries has been that the most effective way to avoid surrender to the failures of the national government is to step out and do the job ourselves as a state.'"

Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia: "The states have important rights. They have almost unlimited police powers. Their authority over taxation is restrained only by competition among themselves. They have reserved complete control over the education of the children of America."

"We ought to remember that these rights are not inherent in geographical entities traced upon maps. They were delegated to the state governments by the people, in whom all sovereignty is implicit."

The governors' assembly of interstate efforts to expedite the war reconstruction, particularly to agree upon blue-prints designed to avoid unemployment during the transition between wartime and peacetime economies.

"In the last several months the states have adopted legislation to make possible the fullest utilization of state facilities in the emergency program," said O'Connor. "Reference to what the states have done demonstrates the fact that these sovereignties are capable of administering within their borders programs essential to the war effort."

"The proof is at hand that there is no need to depart from our original constitutional set-up whereunder the state and federal governments, as independent sovereignties, are expected to discharge responsibilities when necessary jointly for the public welfare."

MINERS LOOK FOR GOVERNMENT HELP

WLB Proposal Rejected. Men Are Idle For the Third Time

which Lewis has charged with prejudice, declared: "The willingness of the mine workers to work and continue the production of coal for the government itself, under the direction of the custodian of mines."

"The executive officers of the United Mine Workers of America are hereby instructed to hold themselves in readiness to confer with the Secretary of the Interior."

The third stoppage in the recurring crisis, which hit anthracite as well as soft coal mines, came in the face of a report by the office of war information (OWI) stressing the importance of coal to the war economy.

The work stoppages began in an orderly fashion with the Friday night shift and approximately 64,000 miners had quit work before the whistles blew an empty summons this morning.

No Contract, No Work
As Joe O'Grady, union local vice president at Ohio's Willow Grove mine summed it up:

"We're not on strike, but we're not going to work because we haven't any contract."

The walkout brought what was described as "an immediate crisis" in the heavy industries of the Birmingham, Ala., area, for one. "Blast furnaces in this district will be going down in 73 hours unless the mining of coal is resumed," said one source.

Carnegie-Illinois corporation at Pittsburgh estimated the effect of a general coal stoppage would be felt by its steel plants within 24 hours and that production would fall 75 per cent "in a very few days." Similar concern was expressed at other steel mills.

Ickes has been nominally in charge of the mines since the government took them over on May 1, but until today the operators have continued in actual control, acting as agents of the government.

absolute chaos and catastrophe," one source said.
Moreover, German officers who have poured into the capital were accused of feeding the black market by freely trading military stores so they can go on spending sprees. An ordinary package of popular brand American cigarettes brings 490 lira (killed $24.93 at 1941 exchange rates) and a suit of good cloth costs 6,000 lira ($340) in the black market.

(There were also reports that Marshal Pietro Badoglio was gaining in popularity and was considered politically on the upgrade.)

'Afro-mobility' of 1900's Revived In Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla.—The "afro-mobility"—bicycle-wheelchair used by tourists in the early 1900s—has staged a comeback as a means of transportation in this resort city.

Recent government edicts on pleasure driving has brought back the three-wheeled vehicle which served here as a taxi before the automobile came into use. The afro-mobility was pedaled by Negroes, who charged tourists and residents fares for rides.
